Aloha Drive Park on Hold

The City has announced that the Aloha Drive Park project is on hold. At the Waikiki Neighborhood

Board meeting on Tuesday, August 9th, Keith Rollman, the Mayor's representative, explained that the park site is needed as a staging area for upcoming construction projects. The Aloha Drive Park site is in close proximity to these upcoming projects. By using it as a staging area, the City will reduce the cost of the projects and the time needed to complete them.

In 2003, the city condemned the vacant 33,000-square-foot property at Seaside Avenue and Aloha Drive, one block mauka of Kuhio Avenue, for approximately $2.3 million. The site was also used as a base yard for the recent Kuhio Avenue construction. The park project will likely be on hold for at least two years.

Beat the School Jam!

August is the month most of our keiki return to school. Traffic will get worse! Expect delays! And take special note of August 22nd, the first day of instruction for the University of Hawaii System.

Start planning now for a smooth transition. Consider coming to work earlier or later to avoid rush hour traffic jams. Or consider joining a car or van pool. Check out www.vanpoolhawaii.com to see if vanpooling may be right for you.

And most important of all, watch out for our keiki as they get in and out of cars and buses or walk along the streets. They will be too excited about going back school to watch out for us, so it's our job to watch out for them!

World's Longest Hula Line at ResortQuest Hawaii's Honolulu Centennial "Hula on the Beach"

In celebration of the Honolulu Centennial, thousands of hula dancers of all ages, races and levels of expertise will unite to participate in ResortQuest Hawaii's Honolulu Centennial "Hula on the Beach" event on Saturday, August 20, 2005, at 4:30 p.m. At this epic event, hula enthusiasts, visitors and kama'aina will be able to share their aloha for Honolulu as they simultaneously dance their own versions of "I Fell-In-Love With Honolulu" on Waikiki Beach to create the longest ever, continuous hula line in history.

Event organizers have contacted Guinness World Records to have the event officially recognized as a world record attempt, however, no confirmation has yet been received on their official involvement. The event, whether it will be an official Guinness World Records' event or not, will go on as planned in the spirit of sharing the Hawaiian art of hula, the aloha spirit, and city pride that residents and visitors share for Honolulu – one of the world's most dynamic cities.

The song "I Fell-In-Love With Honolulu" by Neil McKay will be sung by none-other-than Honolulu Mayor Mufi Hannemann. Cox Radio Hawaii will play the recording at 4:30 p.m. simultaneously on Hawaiian KINE 105.1 FM and KKNE 940 AM. All "Hula on the Beach" participants will be asked to bring a battery-powered radio with them to create a "grass roots" stereo effect all along Waikiki Beach, doing away with the need for a beach-wide sound system.

"ResortQuest Hawaii is honored to be a part of this exciting event that shares Hawai'i's unique art of Hawaiian contemporary "Hapa-Haole" hula and also celebrates the Honolulu Centennial," said Kelvin Bloom, President of ResortQuest Hawaii. "It's the perfect event where visitors and kama'aina can come together on world famous Waikiki Beach, share an aspect of Hawai'i's culture, and be a part of history."

"We are truly honored to be a part of this historic event by having two of our top Hawaiian music stations participate in the music simulcast," said John Aeto, Director of Sales for Cox Radio Hawaii.

I am proud to have my song be part of this great Centennial event," said composer McKay. Neil McKay retired from the University of Hawaii in 1987 as Professor Emeritus. His composition for Javanese Gamelan and orchestra, performed by the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra, is considered a bicultural masterpiece. His numerous awards include a fellowship from the State Foundation on Culture and the Arts "in recognition of artistic excellence, significant accomplishments in Music Composition and commitment to the Arts in the State of Hawaii.”

Rick Egged, President of WIA, encourages all Waikiki businesses to support this event. “I hope all of Waikiki will get behind Hula on the Beach,” said Egged. “There are so many talented people who live and work in Waikiki. I hope they all have the opportunity to be a part of this.”

Find out how to sign up!

To pre-register for the event via email, send your name, birth date and age, home address, telephone numbers and email address to ikai-kacomm@hawaii.rr.com by Wednesday, August 17, 2005. This information is required due to the event being considered for a world record. For halau or other large groups, please submit the group contact person’s name, address, phone numbers and email address and the names, birthdates and ages, and addresses of each person in the group.

Participants may also register on the day of the event (Saturday, August 20) at the ResortQuest Hawaii’s Aston Waikiki Beach Hotel (2570 Kalakaua Avenue) in the lower lobby level shopping and dining arcade from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Official “Hula on the Beach” participant forms will be available to be filled out during that on-site registration process. Validated parking will not be provided.

All individuals and groups will be assigned to an area on Waikiki Beach to make sure the line is even and continuous. Military and community volunteers will be assigned at regular intervals along Waikiki Beach to coordinate the line, take head counts and photos, provide information, and make sure the beach is left clean at the end of the event.

For those who don’t know the hula for “I Fell-In-Love With Honolulu,” free hula workshops (for all levels) are being offered at the following locations:

Saturday, August 13, 2005 at 10 a.m. - Bloch Arena Gym, Naval Station Pearl Harbor (MWR - Open to all Military ID holders, including dependents, national guard, retirees, etc.)

Wednesday, August 17, 2005 at 7 p.m. – Kapolei Hale (Open to the Public)

Friday, August 19 at 10 a.m. – ResortQuest Hawaii’s Aston Waikiki Beach Hotel (2570 Kalakaua Avenue). Location will be poolside for registered ResortQuest Hawaii guests only, due to limited space availability.

Friday, August 19th, 2-4 p.m., – Kapiolani Park Bandstand. Open to the public. Japanese language instruction available. Register for the event here as well.

Hula instruction will be provided by Mona Wood, a life-long hula dancer who has taught hula in both Hawaii and Japan.

The “Hula on the Beach” event is also one of many local events that ResortQuest Hawaii is presenting in August and September 2005 to celebrate the re-branding launch of its new trade name (formerly known as Aston Hotels & Resorts Hawaii).

Following ResortQuest Hawaii’s Honolulu Centennial “Hula on the Beach” event, the celebration continues as ResortQuest Hawaii presents “Sunset on the Beach” on August 20-21. “Sunset on the Beach” is also an official Honolulu Centennial partner event.

Outrigger's Barbara Campbell is named State Director for the International Council of Shopping Centers

Barbara Campbell, vice president of retail development and leasing for Outrigger Enterprises, Inc., has been named state director for the Hawaii Chapter of the International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC), a global industry trade association affiliated with more than 25 national and regional shopping center councils throughout the world. In her new role with the organization, Campbell is responsible for leading the local ICSC chapter in implementing educational and advocacy programs that benefit the retail and shopping center industry.

"We congratulate Barbara on her new responsibility with ICSC," said Mel Kaneshige, chief operating officer for Outrigger Properties. "Barbara is a real pro with an extensive background in retail management and leasing that will serve her and the chapter well as she steps into the leadership position of the ICSC Hawaii Chapter. The organization has chosen well in their new state director, and we applaud Barbara for her dedication and commitment in taking the time from her normal business duties to serve the retail industry and our community."

At Outrigger Enterprises, Campbell oversees the retail development and leasing for the company's commercial and hotel properties, including the entertainment-retail portion of Outrigger's new $460 million Waikiki Beach Walk project. She has been in property management for the past 30 years and has held positions with companies in Washington D.C., California, Denver and Hawaii. Prior to joining Outrigger, Campbell was president and chief executive officer of DGM Group, Inc., responsible for the leasing, management and marketing of major office buildings and shopping centers in Hawaii and Guam, including Waikale Center and Guam Premium Outlets.

Campbell's educational background includes studies at Allegheny College in Pennsylvania and the American University in Washington D.C. In 1985, Campbell became a Certified Property Manager with the Institute of Property Management.

Campbell's commitment to the retail and travel industry as well as to the community is evident in the many volunteer positions she holds in addition to her position with Outrigger Enterprises. She recently was appointed to the City and County of Honolulu's Asset Management Review Team. Campbell also serves on the boards of a number of civic and community organizations, including the Friends of the Waikiki Aquarium, the IREM Foundation, the advisory committee of the City's Partnership for the Environment and she is a member of Retail Merchants of Hawaii, Les Dames D'Escoffier, World President's Organization and the Rotary Club of Honolulu.

The International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC) was founded in 1957 and currently has over 54,000 members all over the world, including U.S., Canada, and more than 80 other countries. Its members consist of shopping center owners, developers, managers, marketing specialists, investors, lenders, retailers and other professionals.

Aloha Festivals Presents Governor Linda Lingle with Symbolic Ribbon

On Wednesday, August 10, at the State Capitol, Aloha Festivals presented Governor Linda Lingle with an Aloha Festivals 2005 ribbon, symbolic of all islands, in appreciation of her continued support of Aloha Festivals. The event was marked by a special presentation by Blaine Kia, noted cultural advisor of Aloha Festivals, who took the opportunity to share the festivals' new direction with the Governor.

Governor Lingle listened as Aloha Festivals members detailed the organization's efforts. Most notable was Blaine Kia's declaration of Aloha Festivals rekindled commitment to a culturally sound festival. Kia illustrated his point with an image of this year's artwork and explained how the overall design of the honu, or sea turtle, represents unity, strength, and the endurance of tradition among the Hawaiian people.

"Aloha Festivals initiated a new direction with the development of this year's theme and we expect that the new, culturally based approach will now begin to infiltrate all aspects of the festival," said Blaine Kia, cultural advisor and board member, Aloha Festivals.

"We were honored to present Governor Linda Lingle with the Aloha Festivals ribbon," said Leolani Kini, president, Aloha Festivals.

"The ribbon represents unity and is an appropriate gift for a leader who unifies all islands with a commitment to perpetuating the Hawaiian culture in mind."

Honoring Hawai'i's heritage and culture for 59 years, Aloha Festivals celebrates with pageantry, parades, street parties, concerts and family activities that span six islands during September and October. Hawaiian Airlines is the statewide presenting sponsor of Aloha Festivals for 2005 through 2006. Major funding is also provided by the Hawaii Tourism Authority. Most events are made possible due to the generous sponsorship and support of private and corporate donations.

In 1947, Aloha Week was created as a public festival to honor the cosmopolitan heritage of Hawai'i through music, dance and history. The first Aloha Week was held during the fall as a modern-day makahiki, the ancient Hawaiian festival of music, dance, games and feasting.

By 1974, Aloha Week expanded to a month-long slate of activities, with events on six islands. In 1991, Aloha Week was renamed Aloha Festivals to reflect the festival's expansion. Nearing its 60th anniversary, the celebration now encompasses hundreds of events. While each island features a parade and Ho'olaule'a, or block party, Aloha Festivals also showcases events that are unique to certain islands such as the Ms. Aloha Nui Contest on the Big Island honoring the large stature of island women.

For the most current schedule of events, visit www.alohafestivals.com. To purchase an Aloha Festivals ribbon ($5) and receive the official 2005 program guide, call (808) 589-1771. Ribbon sales help to fund the statewide festival and provide for discount admission to some events.

Marriott Launches New Guest Service with BaggageDirect

Waikiki Beach Marriott Resort and Spa, located in the pulse of exciting Waikiki Beach, has rolled out another new guest service called BaggageDirect, an independently owned and operated company. BaggageDirect is an exclusive, new TSA-certified "mobile skycap" service providing complete passenger and baggage check-in from home, office, or hotel. It has a service desk located in the main lobby of the resort hotel.

"We continually seek to provide the highest level of customer service for our guests from all market segments," said Stan Engeldorf, general manager at the 1,310-room resort hotel. "Furthermore, with 21 million Marriott Rewards members worldwide, the Waikiki Beach Marriott Resort and Spa attracts a significant number of Marriott Rewards' most loyal customers who would appreciate the convenience of luggage assistance for airport check-in and delivery service."

"We are excited to be affiliated with the Waikiki Beach Marriott Resort and Spa, because when guests think of this resort hotel, they know they can expect wonderful treatment from the moment they arrive to the moment they depart," said Steve Quackenbush, chief executive officer of BaggageDirect. "The BaggageDirect service makes sure that when the passenger finally has to leave this wonderful island, they do so without having to be immediately confronted with long lines and the stress of checking back in to reality at the airport."

"We are grounded in people, not buildings or physical products," said Engeldorf. "Our Marriott culture stems from founder J.W. Marriott, Sr. who said more than 75 years ago, 'If you take care of your associates, they will take care of your customers.'"

Associates engage guests with warm Hawaiian hospitality at Waikiki Beach Marriott Resort and Spa. They anticipate the needs of guests and place a strong focus on providing the highest quality service.
